Diwali Rangoli Drawing: What You Need (10 Easy Steps)

Materials You'll Need

Before starting your rangoli, collect these simple materials:

- Rangoli color powders
- White chalk
- Small bowl or spoon
- Scale (optional)
- Flower petals (optional)
- Diyas (optional)
- Glitter or decorative stones (optional)
- Soft cloth for cleaning the floor

Step 1: Clean the Floor

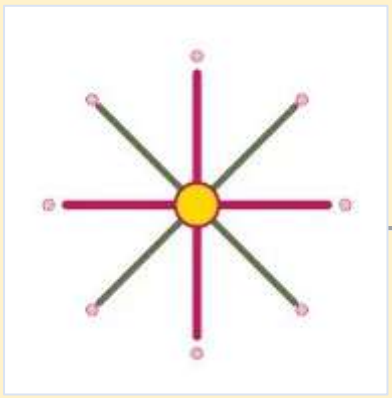

Notes:

- Sweep and clean the floor.
- Make sure the surface is dry.
- A clean floor helps the colors stick properly.

Step 2: Draw a Small Center Dot

Notes:

- Use white chalk.
- Make one dot in the middle.
- This dot is the starting point of the rangoli.

Step 3: Draw a Small Circle

Notes:

- Draw a neat circle around the center dot.
- Try to keep the circle smooth and even.

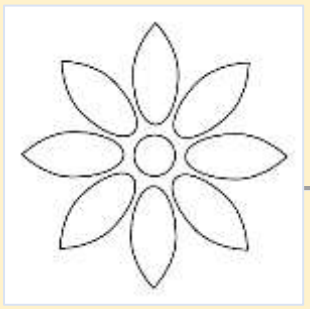

Step 4: Draw Four Petals

Notes:

- Draw one petal on each side.
- Keep all petals nearly equal in size.

Step 5: Add Four More Petals

Notes:

- Draw four more petals between the first ones.
- Now your rangoli has eight petals.

Step 6: Draw Leaves Around the Petals

Notes:

- Add small leaves between the petals.
- Leaves make the design look fuller.

Step 7: Fill Colors Carefully

Notes:

- Use bright colors like red, yellow, blue, green and pink.
- Fill each section slowly.
- Do not mix different colors together.

Step 8: Decorate the Border

Notes:

- Draw white dots around the border.
- You can also make tiny curved lines.
- This gives a beautiful finish.

Step 9: Add Flower Petals

Notes:

- Decorate with marigold or rose petals.
- Use flowers only around the outside of the rangoli.

Step 10: Place Diyas Around the Rangoli

Notes:

- Place 4–8 diyas around the rangoli.
- Light them carefully.
- Your Diwali rangoli is now complete.

Quick Tips for Beginners

- Start with simple shapes.
- Practice with chalk before using colours.
- Use bright contrasting colours.
- Work slowly and patiently.
- Keep both hands clean while changing colours.
- Finish by decorating with diyas and flowers.
